Engagement Party

Today I went to Jennifer & Stefano's engagement party. Jennifer is a dear friend of ours. We met her when she was my nurse and took care of me when I was giving birth to Savannah. She also helped me deliver the triplets. She has gone to VT with us a few times.

Anyway, Jennifer and Stafano met on eHarmony.com They have been dated for almost 2 years. He popped the question a few months ago. So today is their engagement party at her parents house.

I stopped by Claro's Italian market and picked up a dozen different fancy Italian pastries since I knew Stefano was Italian. I also got his mom some fancy Italian chocolates as well as Jennifer's mom some too. We gave them $50 and a cute bride and groom Teddy bear set.

The party was really nice and it was so much fun meeting her friends and extended family. I had a wonderful time.

Jennifer and Stefano will be getting married in Italy. I wish I could go, it sounds so fun and romantic.
