Garage sale

This morning I baked brownies for the La Habra Moms Club garage sale fundraiser to benefit our newest member, Erin and the other 1/2 proceeds will go to purchasing a Santa Suit for our Children's Christmas party.

The brownies were a hit and we sold out. We made about $135. We will plan on having another one later in the year.

On a side note, I am doing something fun for our members of the La Habra Moms club. I bought a bunch of plastic flamingos that you put in your yard and I also bought a bunch of pretty necklaces with beads and flamingos...really pretty. Each month I will pick a member who has put a lot of effort into the club and at night I will put the flamingos in the yard with a little sign saying that they are very special to the club. The flamingo will be draped around one of the flamingo's necks. So this month I chose Valentina since she was having the garage sale at our yard, to thank her for her hospitality.

A couple of days ago at 10pm I snuck out and put the flamingos in her front yard and took a picture. I then emailed the picture to our newspaper editor and she will put it in the August newsletter for the La Habra Moms Club.

Valentina was so suprised and it made her feel very special.
