

Categories: Mom's Corner

Miranda and Amanda are wearing Pull Ups - bye bye diapers!!

Potty training is going very well for Miranda and Amanda. Miranda does really well going on the potty chair, about 85% of the day now. She has peed in the toilet 2 times. She poops about 75% the time in the potty chair now. She pooped 4 times in the potty chair (had lots of diarrhea poor baby!!) She still wears Huggies Overnights at night time. She did have a completely dry night time diaper 2 mornings in a row!! I am very proud of her!!

Amanda goes in the potty chair about 65% of the time. She has pooped a couple of times in the potty chair. She also wears a Huggies Overnights diaper.

Maryssa has no interest in potty training yet. Sometimes she thinks it is a fun and novel idea to take her diaper off and sit on the potty chair. No pee pee in the potty chair yet though!!

I remember when we were potty training Savannah when she was 18 months to 2 years old. She had not interest in it and played in her poop. This was back when I was pregnant with the triplets. When the triplets were born she was only 2-1/2 and she still had no interest in potty training. I had the triplets in diapers and Savannah in diapers and this went on for 6 months until Savannah turned 3. Once she turned 3 in March 2007 I took her to preschool and showed her all of the fun playground stuff. I told her the preschool would not let her join unless she potty trained and wore panties. We began potty training the very next day and within a few days she was completely potty trained - night and day. She never had to wear a night time diaper after that. She never used a pull up diaper either. She went straight from diapers to panties. How lucky was I and she just amazed me!! The triplets are potty training earlier than Savannah but need Pull Ups during the day and need a night time diaper at night.

Date: 30-03-2009