Savannah lost her 2nd tooth tonight

Tonight we all sat on the couch after dinner and Savannah mentioned her tooth was really loose and she wanted to pull it out. She asked Daddy to help twist it around a little and then Savannah grabbed hold of her tooth and pulled it out!! Her sisters stared in amazement as they saw Savannah calmly pull out her tooth.

I tell you, Savannah is becoming a real pro at tooth extractions. Her Uncle Ned would be so proud (he is a pediatric dentist).

She was asking if the Tooth Fairy would come tonight I said she sure would. So we put her tooth in the special tooth box and put it under her pillow. She will get another $1 for her tooth. Wow, she has made some good money this past week!!

She talks a little funny with both of her bottom teeth out.

This is all just a constant reminder that my baby girl is no longer a baby....
