It's raining It's Pouring!!

Lately I have been having to bathe all 4 girls every night before bed. With summer here and long days, it just amazes me how dirt finds my girls bodies!! Baths around here is a ton of work. I do it all myself, bath, PJ's and get ready for bed. It takes me about 1-1.5 hours for the whole process with all 4 girls.

Doing these baths every night made me think... I hate the thought of them soaking in the bath tub and the bath water getting so dirty with them in it. Ewwww!! So I decided I would try to give them a shower. Can I just say how much I now love showers? It cuts the bath time in half and I don't use anymore water than I did with the bath tub. Also, It saves me from having to clean the dirty on the bath tub after the girls' baths. The biggest thing is I don't have any more concerns about drowning because there is no water in the bathtub for them to drown in. This is the BEST thing for moms of multiples!! Shower, Shower, Shower!! I introduced Savannah to showers about the same age as the Triplets are now...a little before 2 years old. I had to because I was pregnant with the triplets and couldn't bend over and bathe her in the bathtub. So Savannah is a pro at showers.

I have one of those shower massager heads with the hose so it allows me to reach all 4 girls to wash their hair. The girls at first didn't like it. They are getting more used to it. Now I sing to them, It's Raining it's Pouring Pretty Soon We are all going to be Snoring!!

So no more baths for my girls...we are into showers now!!
