Birthday Parties and Drowning

We had 2 birthday parties that we attended on Sunday. It was a long 8 hour day!! The first party we all went to there were baby pools and it was pretty manageable with all 4 girls. We wish there had been food to eat because none of us had a chance to eat lunch before or after the naps and the party was at 1:30pm.

Oh well. It was a really fun party. I am so proud of Daddy Cliff!! He babysat the triplets while Savvy and I left for the 2nd party. The 2nd party started at 4:30pm - 8pm and it was just Savannah and mommy. It was a Princess theme. Very cute. The girls made their own pizzas. Savvy ate 4 pizzas since she didn't get to eat lunch. They also has bbq'd chicken, spinach salad and egg rolls. Very delicious!! The cake was also very yummy!!

All of the girls met Snow White, played games with her, she painted their faces, and they had a fashion show with the clothes she brought for them to dress up in that we in her trunk that she brought.

We had a near drowning incident with Savannah that really scared her and freaked me out. I was able to rescue her thank goodness. I am so glad we start swimming lessons next Tuesday!!
