First time floating

Today the girls got to put on floating device that strap around their waist. Then they were given long floating noodles and the teacher, Miss Gail, put the noodle under their arms and taught them how to float.

I tell you, at first I thought I was going to have a heart attack. All of my precious cargo was out their in that swimming pool and the thought of losing anyone one of them to drowning just freaked me out.

Thankfully all of the girls did great. Savannah loved using the noodle the most. She asked me to get her one for this summer.
