

Categories: Amanda

It's been a while Mickey!!

This weekend is the last weekend for the Electric Parade at Disneyland. It will be moving to Disneyworld in Florida.

With this in mind, we decided to go to Disneyland today. Our friend Britney went with us. We had a total blast. We went on every ride in Fantasy Land. The girls had a blast driving cars and a nice cast member gave us fast passes to go on a couple of rides without waiting in line.

So, Britney took the triplets to the Rocket Ship ride and I took Savannah on Star Tours and then we went on Space Mountain. Space Mountain was the biggest ride Savannah has ever been on and this was a huge and big deal! She was scared and loved it all at the same time. When we coasted in after the ride, she asked, mommy, can we go again!! It was so much fun!!

At about 8pm, we ventured over to California to watch the Electric Parade. It was really crowded and we couldn't find a spot to park and view. The girls were crashing out and exhausted. So we grabbed a quick dinner and then went home. Hopefully we can see it this weekend before it ends.

Date: 23-04-2010