Maryssa's speech therapy

I had a meeting with Maryssa's speech therapist, special ed preschool teacher, and the school psychologist about seeing if Maryssa should be in the special ed preschool for speech therapy. She is doing pretty well and they said that she is too advanced and doesn't quality. That is music to my ears.

They did recommend that I put her in regular preschool so I am going to do that starting in January for a couple mornings a week.

Maryssa will continue to go to speech therapy twice a week for 1/2 hour each day.

Maryssa had a bad couple of weeks with meltdowns and general bad behavior. She is over it now. I guess it must have been a phase for her.
