Mom and Rosanne, thank you for your support

I try not to bother too many people about Savannah's school fundraisers, especially with this terrible economy.

However, our school is doing this really cool fundraiser with See's Candy. When I think of See's Candy, I know of 2 people who are devoted fans of the yummy stuff...my mom and my sister Rosanne.

The fundraiser will raise money for the art program for Savannah's school. It enriches their music and choir program as well as liberal arts. School funding has taken this away from the kids so it is up to PTA and us parents to raise the money.

The candy orders have to be turned in by Nov. 10th and the candy is delivered to us on November 24th. I remembered Rosanne is coming down here for a few days to visit during this time and I asked her if she would be interested in purchasing some candy. She could have it when she arrives down here.

I sent her pamphlet of the list of candy products for sale. She gave it to mom to look at. Low and behold, God Bless their hearts, they provided orders from about 8 people and they also ordered themselves. They purchased about $180 in candy. Thank you so much Mom and Rosanne for opening up your hearts and helping Savannah's school. We truly appreciate it.

Love you xoxoxoxo
