Our first day in Vermont

We slept in till about noon. Then I dressed the girls in their cute matching outfits and Daddy Cliff took them to a little fast food place called Scarlottas. This place is also a car hop..something you just don't see anymore these days. A true gem of a place with good food and even better cheap prices.

While Cliff was showing off the girls, I unpacked the boxes of clothes. Yes I said boxes of clothes, not suitcases of clothes. You see, it is easier to pack the clothes in boxes and mail them out 2 weeks ahead rather than packing them in suitcases and schlepping them through the airport.

Besides, with all 4 girls in car seats. there is simply no room for luggage. The airlines rape us for $25 bucks per bag each way to fly the suitcases. It is more convenient and about the same price to mail them.

Now how did I get so side tracked about our boxes vs. suitcases? Oh yeah, I remember, the airlines suck beans and don't give a rats ass about their customers. Ah, that felt good to get off of my chest.
