Categories: Amanda

Preschool Preview

Today the triplets and I wanted to get a preview of their preschool @ La Habra Hills Preschool. They invited us to join their Christmas party today.

I dressed the girls in Grandma's (my mom) Christmas dresses and added cute velvet black pants. It was another new and pretty look that the girls enjoyed from Grandma's presents!!

I brought some homemade baked banana nut bread and Chocolate Chip Bars for the Preschool teachers to enjoy..

We spent the morning at the school getting acquainted with the preschool curriculum, the playground, the classroom, the teacher and the kids. They had Christmas tree cutouts and the kids got to paint the trees on art easels and also cut out Christmas bows and color Christmas pages. It was so much fun!

The triplets really enjoyed themselves and I think they are going to be very happy at this preschool. They will go for a few hours a week.

Date: 17-12-2009