Savannah's school fundraiser

Tonight was Savannah's school fundraiser at McDonald's. The truly neat thing about this was the teachers and principal were helping out in the kitchen cooking the food!! Savannah's teacher, Miss Tarbell, was cooking the French fries. McDonald's gave 15% of all proceeds of all sales to our school from 4pm-8pm. Very generous of them!!

Thank goodness Cliff went with me. There must have been over a hundred people in that restaurant and 50 of them were in the play area. It was packed!

We were suprised and happy to see Vanessa and her mom with her girls there. Her girls, Tiffany and Stacey also go to Savannah's School, El Portal. So we all sat together.

I ordered Happy Meals for the kiddos and got some food for Cliff and me too. The girls were no way interested in food...they wanted to PLAY!! And play they did!!

We lasted about an hour there and then headed back home,,,with LOTS of uneaten food that was the girls lunch the next day.
