Categories: Mom's Corner

The Tooth Fairy will strike again tonight!!

Savannah's upper right front tooth has been loose for a while now. Today she announced that it HAD to come out today. So, she went to Daddy and asked him to help her and watch her pull it out. A few minutes later she came to me with her toothless grin. I was so proud of her.

As I gazed down at her tooth, I got an aching feeling in my stomach that this was one more reminder that my baby is no longer a baby anymore.

We took some pictures of her. She kept telling me that she tasted the blood and it tasted salty...LOL!

Date: 25-10-2009